and that it has not been considered necessary to adopt it for other departments as their accounts are kept open for some months after the close of the financial year. We do not propose to reopen this question but we are left with the impression that the departments receiving the supplies or services do not maintain sufficiently close liaison with the supplying departments in this matter. While it is the duty of the Supplying Departments to arrange for the prompt raising of debits against the receiving departments, it is in our view equally the duty of the latter, as part of their control of expenditure of the funds placed at their disposal, to remind the serving departments and see that debits are received in time. We feel that if a close liaison is maintained between the supplying and receiving departments, there should be fewer cases of lapses due to non-receipts of debits and we suggest that this should be brought to the notice of all departments."

Copies of the Government of India, Finance Department, Memorandum No. F.1/(155)-B/46, dated 18th December 1946 and extract paragraph 7 of the Central Public Accounts Committee's Report for 1944-45 should be forwarded to all Departments of the Secretariat and all Heads of Offices for information and guidance.

2. The Controlling Officers should keep a watch over the receipts of debits and remind the serving departments including departments of other Governments if there is any undue delay in receiving them.
